DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
2. Claims 1, 2, 7-10, 14, 16-18, 21-24, 29, 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Osypka et al (US 2003/0216771). Osypka discloses a vascular introducer assembly with a hemostatic seal comprising a needle 18, a needle hub 20, a needle hub attachment assembly 22, and a hemostatic segment comprising a guidewire inserter 28. The distal end of the hemostatic segment tapers to an end hole having a diameter substantially the same as the guidewire 86. See Fig. 5. The device comprises two elastomeric valves 58, 80. The needle hub and the hub attachment assembly are connected through a leak free threaded engagement.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. Claims 3, 4, 12, 19, 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Osypka in view of Raulerson et al (US 6551281). Claims 3, 4, 19, 32 differ from Osypka in calling for the hemostatic segment to include a guidewire holder that is preloaded with a guidewire. Claim 12 calls for the holder to fasten the guidewire in a loop. Raulerson teaches a guidewire advancer comprising a guidewire holder 24 that is preloaded with a guidewire 21 fastened in a loop so that the guidewire can be easily manipulated by the user and remain sterile while it is inserted into the patient through the introducer device 30. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to include in the device of Osypka a preloaded guidewire holder as taught by Raulerson so that the guidewire can be easily manipulated by the user and remain sterile while it is inserted into the patient through the introducer device.

5. Claims 11, 20, 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Osypka in view of Padilla et al (US 5984895). Claims 11, 20, 31 differ from Osypka in calling for the needle hub attachment assembly to be transparent. Padilla teaches a vascular blood flashback containment device comprising a hub attachment assembly 38 that is transparent to allow for visualization of blood contained in that segment (Col. 6, lines 12-25). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify the device of Osypka to include a transparent portion as taught by Padilla to allow for visualization of blood contained in the hub attachment area.

6. Claim 13 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Osypka. Claim 13 differs from Osypka in calling for a luer lock connection. At the time the invention was made, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to use a luer lock connection. Applicant has not disclosed that having a luer lock serves any advantage or particular purpose or solves a stated problem. Furthermore, one of ordinary skill would expect Osypka and applicant's invention to perform equally well with either a threaded connection or a luer lock because both are well known methods of forming fluid tight seals. Therefore, it would have been prima facie obvious to modify Osypka to obtain the invention as specified in claim 13 because such a modification would have been considered a mere design consideration which fails to patentably distinguish over the prior art.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 8/15/07 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

8. Applicant argues that Osypka does not disclose a needle for percutaneous entry. The examiner disagrees. The language of claim 1 reads, "a needle for percutaneous entry...", percutaneous meaning through the skin. The needle 18 of Osypka is inserted through the skin. The examiner interprets the language to mean that the needle must traverse the skin, not that the needle is necessarily used to pierce the skin.

9. Applicant argues that Osypka does not teach a chamber for receiving body fluid. The examiner points applicant to Fig. 9 of the Osypka disclosure. This figure shows fluid 30 entering lumen distally of the hub attachment assembly 22. The fluid flow is contained by seal 58, and thereby forming a chamber distal of the seal where fluid is received.

Conclusion

10. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
